Summer Term and Summer Languages 2007

In summer 2007, Yale Divinity School and the Institute of Sacred Music, in cooperation with Berkeley Divinity School, will offer an exciting series of weeklong courses in a variety of fields, including biblical studies, worship, music, environmental and sexual ethics, pastoral care, art, and ministry. Three sessions are planned in New Haven, coinciding with the city's annual International Festival of Arts & Ideas: June 4-8, June 11-15, and June 18-22.

In addition, a special two-day course will be held June 20-21—The Contemporary Theological Scene—taught by Dean Harold Attridge, Miroslav Volf, and other senior Yale faculty. And, independent of the three-week Summer Term, language courses in Greek, Hebrew, and Latin will also be offered May 29–July 11. Language courses may be taken for regular academic credit.

Further information, including a schedule of fees, is posted online at www.yale.edu/sdqsummerterm. Summer Term brochures can be ordered at 203.432.5358 or summerterm@yale.edu.
