You are cordially invited to participate in the PIER-East Asian Studies Summer Institute for Educators on "Ethnicity and Social Change in Silk Road Regions of Western China." Educators who wish to participate in the international field study portion of the program (PART I or PARTS I & II) are strongly encouraged to participate in the New Haven portion of the Institute for building adequate background knowledge of the region.

The China field study has been divided into TWO PARTS. After arriving in Beijing on July 11, the group will travel westward so the field study can begin on July 12 in Lanzhou, the capital of Gansu Province. PART I of the field study will explore the diverse landscapes and ethnic cultures in Gansu, Qinghai, and Sichuan Provinces (July 12-29, 2010). Highlights on the itinerary will include visits to the Northwest University for Nationalities, Qinghai Lake, Tu nationality village, active Buddhist temples and monasteries, Thangka painting workshops, grasslands, Mt. Emei (highest of the Four Sacred Buddhist Mountains of China), and the Giant Buddha at Leshan. PART II of the field study is an extension trip into Tibet, which will include visits to palaces, museums, tombs, and monasteries in the cities of Lhasa, Tsetang, Gyantse, and Shigatse (July 29-August 7, 2010). The field study (PARTS I & II) will also include presentations by university faculty, who will be traveling with the group as instructors, as well as more experiential learning, including city tours and visits to other local attractions.

Teachers are able to apply to participate in PART I or PARTS I & II. It is NOT possible to apply ONLY to participate in PART II.

Please carefully review the attached registration form, complete, sign and send appropriate portions back to Abbey Newman (mailing address is at the end of the application).

Preference will be given to applicants who are currently employed teachers who have shown concrete plans to utilize the field study experience in their own classrooms. Preference will also be given to applicants who attend the New Haven portion of the Summer Institute.

Teachers who participate in the China Field Study will be expected to keep diaries of ethnographic entries, actively participate in lectures and discussions groups with faculty instructors, and develop lesson plans/curricular units/conference presentations that will be posted as part of an outreach section of a public website devoted to Silk Road studies.

Please note that the PIER-EAS Summer Institute and Field Study for Educators is made possible with the support of the Council on East Asian Studies at Yale University and its Title VI NRC Grant from the United States Department of Education. Program fees have been generously subsidized.

COMPLETED APPLICATION DUE BY APRIL 15, 2010

Applications received after this date MAY NOT be considered for acceptance.

Participants will be notified of their acceptance into the field study by May 1, 2010.

Part V. APPLICATION QUESTIONS FOR THE FIELD STUDY

Please answer each question concisely and completely. If you would like to attach separate pages for your answers, please do so.

1) What do you hope to gain from this learning experience in China? How will you incorporate your knowledge into your classroom teaching/ work experience? (Feel free to include a specific lesson plan proposal as a separate attachment.)

2) Do you have experience traveling abroad? To Asia? To China? If so, please describe your travel experiences.

3) What do you expect from this field study?

4) Describe an experience that has challenged your preconceived notions about another culture. What did you learn from the experience?

5) Have you ever been involved in group travel before? If so, what did you like and dislike about it? If not, what are some of the positive and negative aspects you foresee?

6) What is your level of flexibility? For example, if and when the trip itinerary changes abroad, how would you adapt to these changes?

7) Do you speak a foreign language? If so, what is your level of fluency? (Please note that you do NOT have to speak Chinese to take part in this field study although some basic conversational skills will certainly add to the experience.)

8) Please list your memberships in professional, community, volunteer, or non-profit organizations.

9) Do you have any health issues that might affect your level of participation in group activities? For example: Is your mobility limited? Do you have food allergies or a very specific diet that you must follow? Do you have problems in extreme heat or cold? Are you currently taking any medications? Can you walk approximately 5 miles each day? This field study will involve a great deal of walking and much of it will take place in HIGH ALTITUDES. Please note if you have had any issues with altitude sickness in the past.

10) Are you interested in presenting the lessons that you produce? This may include a presentation through PIER, or at another conference, such as COLT or CCSS.

Other requirements:

- Letter of reference from supervisor (1 page)
- Letter of reference from colleague (1 page)
- Current CV and/or résumé if available
- In some cases, a brief phone interview may be required. You will be contacted if this is necessary.
